American Loan to Britain To Be Exhausted in October

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(Reuters)—The American loan to Britain will be exhausted some time in October, Hugh Dalton, chancellor of the exchequer, told the House of Commons today.

DALTON SAID THE $3,750,000,000 loan had started off on a "good note" but that it was now being "used up" very rapidly.

He said the "great storm" which now faced Britain, with large military forces mobilized, indicated a conversion from war to peace, but prospects of increasing productivity and of getting vital coal to make her industries run, was in a stronger position than when the loan was being "used up."

Dalton said the "storm" had been "used up" very rapidly. "The force of this storm is measured today by the rate of exhaustion of the United States line of credit. This storm has been brewing for a long time."

Not for a generation had Britain paid for her imports by exports alone. Between two world wars the greater part of the country's overseas investments had been destroyed. "The period of living on credit," he said, "is now over."

Police Officers Kept Busy Throughout Night Prowler Car Activities are Varied

By Jack Wilson

What does a policeman do at night? While travelling around the city in a prowler car? This we wanted to find out. The Edmonton Bulletin camera man and this writer, took the trip with the "prowler boys" on Wednesday night. Much to our disappointment it was a quiet night, but we learned a lot.

WE STARTED OFF at 10 p.m. in No. 2 prowler car with Constables Bob Gillies and Norman Furell. Their job was to tour the east end of the city.

No sooner had we got started than a radio call was received in the car to proceed to a hotel in North Edmonton where a young fellow was reported to be kicking up a rumpus. On arrival there it was found that he had pushed his fist through a glass partition, which annoyed the management.

After a short wait, the "prowler car" was taken to the station. At first he explained that he had been "hambone" in a city parking plant. Soon after this the car had to be stopped while one of the policemen checked the car. The car was found to be a 1935 Ford, and the driver was taken to the station. The car was then taken to the station and the driver was taken to the station.

First Global Reactions Commonwealth Plans Quick Aid to Britain

By Reuters News Agency

Commonwealth countries reacted promptly today to Britain's crisis with plans for immediate help, following Prime Minister Attlee's announcement yesterday of new austerity measures to avert economic disaster.

FIRST GLOBAL reactions were that Britain's position was a grave matter for the world and particularly for Europe.

Canadian government officials said last night they would have to wait for official word from the United Kingdom before being able to state definitely how the Dominion's trade would be affected by Britain's move.

Some officials were hopeful that long-term credit contracts and the world shortage of food would save Canada from feeling the brunt of the British government's import decisions.

Other reactions included: AUSTRIA: The government would shortly announce action to help Britain, declared Trade Minister Benjamin Gottlieb, while Prime Minister Schuschnigg told the press that Austria would do its utmost to help Britain.

Seventh Producer Strengthens Field

By Jack Wilson

The new Edmonton oilfields advanced another giant stride Wednesday when at 2:30 p.m. the Imperial Oil Company's seventh successful well blanketed into the producer's field after about eight hours under natural pressure from Imperial's neighboring producer No. 2.

The incoming of Imperial's No. 7 further proves the central part of the Leduc area and gives Imperial an unbroken string of successes since drilling was commenced last Feb. 13.

Estimated daily production from the Leduc sector on Imperial's seven wells, in the neighborhood of 1,400 barrels, all under choke control, but capable of many times that figure on larger chokes, or open flow.

THE NEW WELL was hailed as another producer's equal to No. 2, which is the largest well in the field. The seventh well adds its weight to the early need for construction of Imperial's Edmonton refinery, site for which is already secured and prepared for start-up by Imperial's No. 2.

Imperial officials have not yet confirmed a report from Whitehorse that their agents had been negotiating for the purchase of the field, while the referendum motion came from N. P. Finerman.

It was decided also that the resolutions passed at the meeting would be submitted to a city council on Monday night next, and that the commissioners be requested to arrange for delegations from the CDA to appear before council in support of the resolutions.

Mayor Ainslie told the audience he would not be stampeded into a decision on the CDA's proposal.

THE MEETING ALSO passed a resolution stating the CDA is of the opinion that if city council decisions are taken on the basis of the commissioners that fares be increased, that no action be taken until the matter has been referred to all city voters by way of referendum.

The motion opposing the proposed increase in fares was made by Clifford W. F.A. Johnson, president of the CDA, and was attended by less than 40 persons.

Odor Is Off On Speed Hop Around World

By Jack Wilson

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(UPI)—Odor took off today on a solo speed flight around the world. Odor lifted his converted A-36 attack bomber to the stratosphere at 12,000 feet.

The plane was the same "Honeywell" in which Odor and his wealthy partner, Milton Heynolds, set a round-the-world speed record last April.

"I'm ready, the ship's ready," Odor said, "and the weather's perfect. I'll be home in 27 days."

Odor hopes to set the wheels of his "Bombardier" down on the Chicago airport runway within 96 hours after the start of the 19,000-mile jaunt.

If he succeeds, he will cut in half the present record of 192 hours set in 1931 by the "Winnie Mae."

Odor plans to make a stop at Edmonton and will probably be here sometime Monday.

Press of Great Britain Divided on Attlee Plan

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—A strong undercurrent of criticism and division of opinion is today's British press accompanied the announcement of the government's plan to overcome its present economic difficulties.

ed to be levelled against what was considered to be the insufficiency of the measure proposed by Prime Minister Attlee in the House of Commons yesterday.

Although the influential Times, usually pro-government, said that Attlee's speech set out the headings of the program but did not set out his policy could nevertheless be made into a "real program."

The widely-read Independent Daily Express, however, in calling for the development of the Empire, suggested that there could be no hope of recovery until the socialist philosophy and the Anglo-American loan were scrapped.

Some newspapers like the Conservative Daily Telegraph and the Conservative Daily Mail were more friendly to the plan, but the Communist Daily Worker referred to it as "the road to ruin."

Telegraph: "There is one big gap in the speech, namely the absence of any indication what is to happen to the government's nationalization program."

New Chronicle (Liberal): "Attlee has prescribed the stiffest dose we have yet had to swallow. It is authority with a vengeance."

Daily Herald (Labor): "The prime minister appealed for confidence in the workers of Britain to co-operate to the utmost in the program which he announced. His confidence is not misplaced."

One Each Saturday After Death

Wanted Roses Sent to Beloved

By BETTY EWING
RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 7 (BUP)—The Virginia supreme court of appeals was asked today to set aside the request of the late Valentine Lawless to send "one perfect rose" each Saturday to the girl who spurned his love.

Valentine, an army air force sergeant killed in battle had asked that his money be used to pay a florist for delivering to the girl one rose every week after his death. Valentine specifically instructed his brother not to reveal the name of the girl.

"MY IDEA," Valentine wrote to his brother "is to furnish the girl with the pleasure of receiving a rose, not to have her think of me because I sent it to her."

The name of the girl was not disclosed. She is now married and reportedly lives in this state. Valentine's letter, opened at his death, revealed that he had been deeply in love with the girl "for over three years." The addressee said that he had no hopes of winning her.

"But I will continue to love her," Valentine wrote. Like other soldiers overseas

Valentine made a will. There was a clause turning over the cash residue of his $3,000 estate to his brother Edward for "a special purpose" not defined in the will. There was a separate letter to be opened on his death.

Valentine's letter asked that the cash be used to buy the "one perfect rose" each Saturday morning. Any color will do so long as it's a rose, the 36-year-old Valentine wrote.

Valentine's request became known when his sister, Margaret, contended that his brother's request was "not practical." The sister, and other heirs named in Valentine's will claimed that failure of the document to specify the "special purposes" had the effect of leaving the $3,000 in trust with Edward for the benefit of other heirs.

Edward, however, contended that carrying out the instructions in his brother's letter was a "matter of conscience."

A lower court ruled that Valentine's funds were left to Edward in an effort to prevent delivery of the "perfect rose" to the girl. No rose has yet been sent.

assisted the young man to the side of the road where he became ill. On arrival at the station and after an examination he was released with strict instructions to return home.

For the next hour we toured around while the constables checked doors and windows on business establishments to make sure all were locked and that none of the premises had been entered.

Then at 11:30 p.m. a call was received to be on the look-out for a youth five feet seven in height, wearing a khaki jacket. Constable Donald McLaughlin, handling the radio at the police station, said the youngster had just snatched a white leather purse from a woman at 116 avenue between 95A and 96 street. The woman was Miss Sanders, residing at 11546 97 street.

IMMEDIATELY A quick survey of back alleys and front streets was made in that vicinity. No cult could be found. However, Constable Farnell was dropped off to interview Miss Sanders and get her particulars. He found that she could not tell him more, other than that the purse contained a very small amount of money, and her glasses. She said the youth snatched the purse but she still had the handle.

The two prowler men continued the search for a while, and attempted to find the purse which most snatchers usually throw away as soon as possible. Then Constable Gillies spotted a young man in a light colored jacket running along 96 street. He was stopped, but it proved to be a wild goose chase. He was running to reach a store before it closed, and had a perfect alibi. A further search brought no luck.

THEN A CALL was received on the radio to be on the look-out for a certain car as a woman had phoned the police station stating that her husband was driving the auto and he was drunk.

Next came a routine patrol of the business premises and private homes. Probably business men do not realize the protection their stores receive during the night. At least 100 businesses were inspected. The constables got to the car, went around the building trying doors and locks, and shined their flashlights through the windows to make sure nothing was disturbed inside. These were inspected, three, and some of these four, times during the tour of duty.

The radio blared forth again. This time to proceed to a rooming house on 86 street where a woman was reported to have had $40 stolen from a wallet.

ON ARRIVAL THERE, the woman explained that she and her husband had been sitting in a 97 street car along with a man. She said the other man had been sitting on the side where a pocket contained the wallet. Later she said she discovered the wallet missing and at this point the other man, who had been sitting beside her,

103-Year-Old Man Missing in East

TIMMINS, Ont., Aug. 7.—(CP)—

Search parties directed by provincial police yesterday scoured the country surrounding South Porcupine for trace of 103-year-old Dennis Mahoney, missing from his home there since Sunday morning. More than 100 citizens joined in the search.

But Valentine's sister and other heirs appealed to the higher court in an effort to prevent delivery of the "perfect rose" to the girl. No rose has yet been sent.

Constable Gillies instructed the woman to report to the police station while he and Constable Farnell went in the search of the wanted man. He was "picked up" in the same car, and along with a friend of his was brought to the station for questioning.

The man, a six-footer in height was arrogant and a little the worse off for drink. He sat in the prowler car and remarked, "What dya want me for, copper?" Constable Gillies replied, "Just for questioning, Robert." Then Robert came back with a "new set of boys." "Only too well," was the constable's remark, and then all was silent until arrival at the station.

WHEN SEARCHED and questioned at the station no evidence of them could be found. However, due to the condition of the suspect, he was booked on an intoxication charge.

While in the station at this time, a phone call was received from the Royal Alexandra hospital, asking police aid in notifying a woman that her mother had died. The woman lived in an apartment house. As it was in the early hours of the morning, and the constables could not locate the woman's room, they left a note in the house mail box.

From this time on it was just a continual tour of the businesses and private homes again. Then at 1:30 a.m. Constable Farnell was checking the doors of a hardware store on 118 avenue, near 60 street. He found the main door ajar and open. He looked it and left a note for the proprietor.

This prowling around went on until 6 a.m. Then the two constables had to type out their reports for the chief constable to read in the morning. The millimeter showed a night's ride of more than 60 miles. Both constables were in full agreement that they should accompany them on Saturday night or a pay night for some real excitement.

Hoot Mon Takes Harness Classic

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Amid shattered records and shattered stands, a black streak of lightning, tagged Hoot Mon, struck the stretch of Good Time Park's racing strip Wednesday and started to a smashing victory in the biggest harness race of the season.

The black son of Scotland came roaring home in the second and third heats after being bested on by the giant favorite, Rodney, in the first portion, as all Hamiltonian gate and betting records were smashed.

On the darker side of the picture was the collapse of three sections of the temporary bleachers fronting the head of the stretch, which sent 71 fans to Goshen hospital or the Red Cross tent at the track for treatment. Two were in serious condition.

Swimming Champ KELLOWNA, B.C., Aug. 7.—(CP)—

Boat racing, 18-year-old Vancouver star, won the ladies swimming aggregate for the second year in succession at the close Wednesday of the two-day 41st annual Kelowna regatta.

There are three classes: puppy, derby, or novice, and all-ages. Landdown Ricker, owned by Jack Noble, is pictured above bringing back a duck. Landdown will be displaying his wares on Sunday.

Falcons Swoop Into Final Berth

Post Office Falcons advanced into the northern Alberta intermediate football finals with a 9-2 win over Legion 178 last night. The triumph gave the Falcons the semifinal round in two straight and sends them into the finals against Dakota Cakes.

The game was tied at 3-2 in the fifth when Al Beatty blasted a double over second, to a field goal that proved to be the winning run. Lawrence Kadatz and Jack Shearer collected two and three hits respectively for the winners.

Score by halves:
Legion 178... 000 10-2 4 2
Falcons... 100 00-0 2 3
Sakowski and Bodnar; Mall and Caldwell.

Braves Scalp Brooks As Cards Keep Coming

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Boston Braves last night handed Brooklyn Dodgers their second defeat in as many nights, beating the National League leaders 7-3 behind Lefty Warren Spahn who won his 14th victory. Biggest blow for the Braves was Bob Elliott's three-run homer in the fourth frame, the third sacker's 14th of the campaign.

A crowd of 22,522 paid at Boston to witness the game. The Braves made the total for the three games of the four-game series 16-7.

Brooklyn's Larry Jensen turned back the late-inning Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 to gain his 12th National League victory against four defeats for the free-busting New York Giants at New York.

St. Louis Cardinals beat back a ninth-inning rally to defeat Cincinnati Reds 6-3 and extend their National League winning streak to an even half dozen. Stan Musial and Terry Moore connected for round-trippers for the Cards as three errors contributed to St. Louis scoring.

HORIZONTAL 59 Tried

Wife and Children Valuable in Old Age

A man who has nothing against the feminine sex as a whole, but who is allergic to the holy estate, writes me that he would be perfectly happy and contented if his friends would only permit him to live single in peace. But they won't. His next friends, who are husbands and fathers, are actually telling him the same story. He will be just the sort of wife he needs, and he wants to have a man should marry him. He has no inclination that way, and what are the advantages of marriage over bachelorhood?

WELL, OF COURSE, marriage isn't compulsory for a man, though it may become so if women cease getting their bills for eggs right passed and in view of the husband shortage, the bachelor may be looked upon as Public Enemy No. 1. So, while the unmarried man is still free of domestic shackles, he had better make the most of his liberty while he can.

Undoubtedly the advocates of matrimony for men have their points, not the least of which is that he enjoys a social status that the married man does not possess. He is an object of esteem to all who know him, father and child. He monopolizes his own pocketbook and he is automatically protected from unemployment, having to jump the time clock on the day that his salary and dress-making bills are paid. He is a social success.

But there's always a fly in the ointment and the bachelor is apt to discover a time when he doesn't want to be a lone wolf roaming around in search of companionship. He wants to be somebody's pet, to belong somewhere and to someone. He doesn't want to dance the rumba alone. He wants to spend his evenings with his own friends, reading his book, listening to the radio, or to be a part of something. He doesn't want to have to be a social success.

IT IS IN A man's mind, that he is a social success. It is when a man reaches the time when he is tired of himself, that he is a social success. It is when he is tired of himself, that he is a social success.

Why Grow Old?

Actress Adelle Jorgens demonstrates how glasses may be worn to ease the mistakes impression that glasses may be looks.

By Josephine Lowman
Women who have not needed glasses until middle age are often given a psychological bump when glasses are first prescribed. They feel much as they do when they discover their first gray hair. Yet this is entirely a matter of personal experience, because many "visioning" people become bitter when they are told to wear glasses. Therefore, do not let other people "throw" you overboard. You cannot see well and the physical posture which this induces has much more effect than the simple glasses of putting glasses on. You must learn to wear glasses in a new and different way. When you need them is not only a matter of vision, but of the eyes. It is a matter of the eyes. It is a matter of the eyes. It is a matter of the eyes.

IT IS IN A man's mind, that he is a social success. It is when a man reaches the time when he is tired of himself, that he is a social success. It is when he is tired of himself, that he is a social success.

Your Baby and Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred
The mother who is exhibiting infantile patience when she offers solid food to the baby for the first time is in her ideal case. But because the baby needs it and should have it he should take it with gusto.

What she must remember is that the spoon is a new instrument for feeding. The baby has been used to sucking and nursing from a nipple and when he applies himself to the spoon, as he would a nipple the food is pushed out of his mouth instead of back and down his throat.

This is a matter over which the child has no control. He may be eager to eat, but he resists the spoon of food in his mouth and out it comes, down his chin. After this happens a few times his mother is exasperated and the baby is furious. He wants the old, familiar bottle and no more nonsense from this unproductive spoon.

The baby will manage some foods better than others. If the food is made up with milk formula he may sip it up as he does a spoonful of orange juice. If it is too thick or has a rough texture, he may really dislike it and push it out purposely. Most babies like their first foods very much and neither too thick nor too thin, and warmed as they are in formula.

If the baby doesn't succeed in getting the vegetable down, after repeated tries, then give him strained fruit or try another type of vegetable. Maybe he really doesn't fancy carrots but may like peas or beans. Children do have discrimination in taste as any mother discovers.

The combination of a number of vegetables, flavored with meat stock which he can had in the form of a nice thick soup, is often an agreeable way in which to introduce the baby to vegetables. The concoction is just the right thickness to go down easily and tastes like the flavor of meat.

The high note is not to force the child for inability to swallow all of the portions just at first. Don't be afraid to make changes of food, if it does not go smoothly with the one before offered.

The average audience has been rearranged and looks for the rearranged angle of the love theme in the history of today's philosophy of the world, Shakespeare and the Greek and Roman literature that we find a terrific insight in to human nature."

Like most women target rifle enthusiasts, Mrs. Coe started shooting because of her husband's per-

No New Commitments

Canada 'Deep Enough' In Home Construction

By Douglas How

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Canada's top housing official said yesterday he thought the federal government was involved deeply enough in home construction and added that he knew of no consideration being given further state commitments to attack a situation which he admitted was "dangerous."

DAVID B. MANUFR, president of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said Ottawa is already building or backing the building of more than 20,000 homes, had some 40,000 under its wing and had reached a point where it was unable to guarantee priorities in materials had been about saturated.

In an interview, the head of the agency that has absorbed most of the government's housing responsibilities said:

"No general buyers strike has developed but it is possible to see the beginnings. If the situation—home prices getting too high for people who want homes—continues to develop within the next year as it has in the last 12 months, there would probably be a general halt to sales."

2. As an "educated guess," he would estimate that roughly 65-

000 units will be completed this year compared to the 80,000 set target.

3. The government will finish all 1,300 homes started on 33 projects by Housing Enterprises Ltd., a group of insurance companies which started into the housing business in a big way but decided to get out. About 50 per cent now are occupied and the others range from 20 per cent to virtual completion.

NOTING THAT the cost index of a home had risen from roughly 147 on the basis of 100 for the 1935-1939 period to an index of 194.160 last year and about 175 now, Mr. Manufr said a six-story home built to meet necessary National Housing Act standards would cost at least $8,000 at present, except on a Pacific Coast.

He read off a list of four and five-room homes now under construction in Eastern Canada, the four and five-room homes at $4,000 and $5,000, the latter all more than $3,000.

Easier climatic conditions allow a four-room house to be built on the Pacific for $4,000 to $4,500.

For the last two months, Mr. Manufr said, costs have not fluctuated after rising in the wake of spring wage increases, rises in lumber and millwork costs among others. He declined to predict that the future holds.

HE REGRETTED that the public seemed to forget that the 63,000 homes built last year had nearly doubled the total for 1939. Production of materials also was at a record level, but still wasn't enough.

The construction industry was operating at about 135 per cent of its capacity.

However, he admitted that construction was only just keeping pace with the formation of new family units.

Discuss Higher Price for Wheat

CALGARY, Aug. 7.—(CP)—The question of an increased price for Canadian wheat was discussed at the executive meeting of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture at a two-day meeting ending Wednesday. This topic has been under discussion for some time and many enthusiastic comments have been made regarding the Canadian Wheat Board and the government wheat policy which includes the British wheat agreement.

THE MEETING expressed its support of the long term agreements and the Canadian Wheat Board. However, in maintaining the federation policy of stability of income, it was pointed out that many districts would be hard hit by drought and would be hard pressed for financial help. With this thought in mind and the fact that large surpluses are now being held by the board, the following resolution was passed:

Whereas, it has been the policy of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture to strive for stability in farm income, and
